

Many Ponds Are Built on Local Farms

By GEORGE F. BROWN
Conservationist

Gus McCaskill completed construction of a large stock water pond recently. His farm is located on Ozan Creek northeast of Ozan. The pond was located on some waste land that was too wet for use as grassland.

This is the third pond Gus has had constructed in the last four years. Mr. Irvin Honeycutt, the manager of the farm says, "I like large ponds. Large ponds don't get muddy."

Dr. G. D. Royston installed four new water troughs with automatic float valves. Dr. Royston plans to put a watering trough on each 80 acres of pasture. He now has 12 troughs that are furnished with water from ponds. He fences his ponds to keep cattle from wading in them and pipes the clean water to troughs.

While I was on his farm surveying for the location of water troughs, he called my attention to his weed control program. Since he started spraying pastures for weeds he has almost eliminated weeds.

O. B. Hodnett, whose farm is across the road from the Experimental Station constructed some drainage ditches through his pasture this week. Mr. Hodnett says, "Bermuda grass will not grow where it is too wet. I want land drained to grow grass." If you pass his farm note the increased ground cover of grass since he started weed control by spraying. His pasture used to have more weeds than grass, but now he has a solid cover of grass.

Harold Stephens of Blevins constructed another stock water pond last week. Harold has constructed this pond for tri fold purpose. To furnish stock water, to control erosion of a large gully, and to lessen the loss of water from his 1400 acre farm.

If Harold continues, he will have a small water shed control program. He put drawdown tubes in each pond to control the amount of excess water that can run off. When he gets all his ponds constructed, the drawdown tubes will not let out more water than a small ditch can carry off the 1400 acres. This control will top the flooding of Marlbrook Creek.

Bert Scott of McCaskill, constructed a drainage ditch and a field drains to drain 40 acres of land. Bert said, "I lost a crop on this land this year and part of a crop last year. It's good land but you can never tell when the weather will be right for it." I am sure the drainage will insure Bert a better crops.

The Hempstead County Soil and Water Conservation District assisted the following farmers to prepare conservation plans on their farms this week: Jimmie Cook, W. C. Bruner, Bruce Scoggins, L. E. Formby, Jim McCaskill and W. P. McCrea.

These plans, if carried out, will help control soil and water loss, drain wet lands to increase production, convert cut woods to profitable timber land and an overall better use of land.

Get 8 Years for Blasting Phone Tower

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Two men were sentenced to eight years in prison Thursday for blowing up two microwave towers and a relay station in the Nevada-Utah desert.

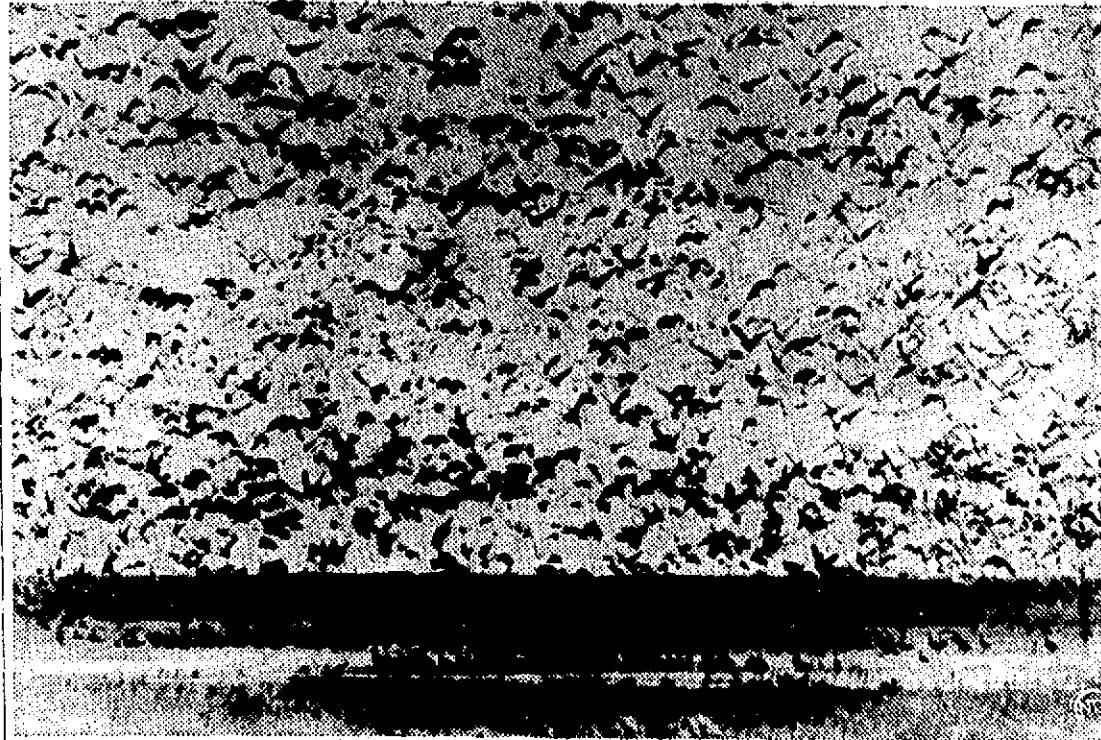

Bernard Brous, 51, and Dale Jensen, 23, pleaded guilty to conspiracy and obstructing vital communications. The government dropped sabotage indictments.

Brous said he was commander in chief of the "American Republican Army." Jensen was his only known follower.

When arrested, Brous said the explosions last May 28 were set off to arouse interest in his "army," show the government its defenses were weak and avenge wrongs he felt were perpetrated by telephone companies.

Rockefeller Points to Vote Frauds

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller used a grand jury report from his home county Thursday to back up his contention that Arkansas needs a strong Republican Party.

Addressing about 250 Clark County Republicans at Arkadelphia, Rockefeller called a recent Conway County Grand Jury report "the most shocking statement I have seen in a long time."

The report he referred to summed up jury's investigation of alleged election irregularities by noting that some election officials may have inadvertently broken some laws but there was no criminal intent.

Rockefeller said conditions such as those noted in the report exist in a number of Arkansas counties and he added, "A revitalized Republican Party can lead the way to better election laws in Arkansas."

Rockefeller, GOP national committeeman for Arkansas, is leading a campaign to bolster his party in the state.

Japs Will Get Share of U. S. Imports

HIKONE, Japan. (AP) — The United States told Japan at the conclusion of Cabinet-level discussions on economic affairs today that they can expect a fair share of the $2-billion-a-year increase in U.S. imports the Kennedy administration anticipates.

But Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges warned that the United States "very soon will have to increase its exports tremendously" because present exports totaling $20 billion a year represent only 4 per cent of the nation's total production.

The observations were made during the second day of the closed talks of the joint U.S.-Japan committee on trade and economic affairs.

Negroes Win Planting Competition

MEMPHIS (AP) — Farm families from Lee and Monroe counties were the top Arkansas winners Thursday in the Negro section of the Commercial Appeal's plant to prosper contest.

Judges named Mr. and Mrs. Nute Smith of Marianna the top landowners, and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Wade of Holly Grove the best tenants.

They will be eligible to compete with other state divisional champions from Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee for a sweepstakes award of $250 at the newspaper's annual rally here Dec. 1.

Diplomats Urged to Seek Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today received the diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican and urged them and their governments "to use well the time at their disposal to act for peace, civilization and true progress."

The pope received the diplomats from some 50 nations at one of several ceremonies during the two-day observance of the third anniversary of his coronation and this 80th birthday.

Deer Objects to Camera Charges

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP) — Hunting deer with a camera can be dangerous. Even if they are pets.

Ben Bracken, 52, a commercial photographer, found that out when he went to snap pictures of a pet buck, doe and twin fawns.

The full-grown buck charged Bracken as he raised his camera. The photographer suffered deep cuts on his hands and legs before he could make it over the nearest fence.

State Body Asks Repeal of Labor Act

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — William P. Rock reports today to the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, of which he is executive director, on the progress of a campaign toward the repeal of the federal Walsh-Healey minimum wage act of 1938.

Other topics on the agenda of the AIDC meeting are a review of a pending AIDC conference on agriculture, a report on the Area Redevelopment program in Arkansas, and a discussion of freight rates.

George H. Ellison, president of AIDC Chairman Winthrop Rockefeller to repudiate Rock's recent criticism of the minimum wage law, but Rockefeller said he would wait until the commission reviews the problem before he replies.

Ellison charged that Rock was selling low wages to attract industry and that the AIDC has assured the AFL-CIO it would not do this. Ellison asked that Rock be forced to resign if he does not agree with AIDC policy on the matter.

Rock said the act, which allows the government to set minimum wages in industries doing business with the government nullifies some of Arkansas' industrial advantages.

Outbreak of Scarlet Fever

JARRISON, Ark. (AP) — Diagnosis of the illness of one student as scarlet fever and the belief that two others may have the disease has caused closure of schools at Omaha in Boone County until Nov. 13.

Some 300 students attend the schools. The school board ordered the buildings cleaned and fumigated.

Superintendent Arlie Olsen said a Harrison doctor had diagnosed the illness of a 15-year-old sophomore as scarlet fever. The student and his family have been quarantined.

Japs Pick Up Report From Soviet Bombs

TOKYO (AP) — The Japan Meteorological Agency recorded explosions Thursday believed to be Soviet nuclear blasts—possibly the same two reported earlier by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The agency said abnormal atmospheric vibrations were recorded by observatories throughout Japan.

Editor Reports on Conference With Officials

(This is one of a series of articles written from information obtained in conferences at Dallas last week with high officials of the State Department of the United States.)

By J. Q. MAHAFFEY
Of The Palmer Newspapers

The State Department bases its defense of foreign aid on the statement that not a single country which has received substantial U.S. assistance under the aid program as we now know it has gone Communist.

Officials point out that the last three administrations have attached great importance to foreign aid as a means of holding the line against Communism. Truman and Eisenhower were for it and both Nixon and Kennedy endorsed it in their campaigns.

"The State Department readily admits that the administration of foreign aid has been without its errors. In some cases we have used bad judgment, and in others we have been even stupid but officials contend that without our aid program, it is highly likely that all of Europe and a great many countries throughout the rest of the globe would now be in Communist hands with the result that the balance of world power would have shifted to the Communists."

To the charge that we have nothing to show for the $5 billion dollars we have spent in foreign aid, the State Department says we have much to show, including: 1) a massive free world military strength; 2) great food production in the underdeveloped countries to meet their own needs; 3) significant steps toward eradication of disease.

New York to Import for Milk Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner says the city is going to import milk to end the drought because of a strike now in its 11th day.

Wagner, on a television broadcast Thursday night, promised police protection, if necessary.

"Milk will be brought in and the people will get it," Wagner said.

The mayor said he was interrupting his reelection campaign to give full time toward settling the walkout of 10,000 delivery drivers and plant workers, begun Oct. 24.

Both sides said today they were "no nearer" a settlement.

Commenting on Wagner's milk import promise, Samuel J. Cohen, lawyer for the striking Teamsters Union locals, said: "All it seems to involve is an effort to supply milk to children and other persons who need it."

An emergency plan to provide milk for hospitals, schools and other institutions seemed to have bogged down.

A union demand for time clocks to check on overtime for drivers—remained the principal stumbling block to a settlement.

The union seeks an immediate 87 weekly pay raise for delivery men and plant handlers in New York City and Long Island. Dealers have offered an $8.10 package spread over two years. Dealers had averaged $108.50 a week plus commissions of about 10 per cent. Plant worker wages vary from $103 to $129 a week.

Cancer Cure Eventually Is Certain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Isidor S. Ravdin, past president of the American College of Surgeons, says it is now certain cancer will come under control just as diabetes has.

An array of anticancer drugs may be the answer, Ravdin told reporters after presiding at the opening session of a conference of cancer specialists Thursday.

And he also said in a speech to the conference that it is highly likely that "before another year is passed, we may well find that malignant lesions" may be certain of the common human caused by viruses.

"We may have information on the control of such lesions by chemical agents," he said.

That was one of the more hopeful notes sounded at the two-day conference. The main theme was "cautious hopefulness" and the public was told that no breakthrough is in sight in the fight against the disease.

The conference, bringing together about 1,000 physicians and surgeons for a review of methods of treating cancer with chemicals, is sponsored by the Cancer Chemotherapy National Service Center, an agency of the Department of Welfare.

Dr. Ravdin, University of Pennsylvania surgeon who was the only civilian on the teams of doctors that performed the illethical operation on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956, said there had been heartening progress made in the past two years since the last conference.

One development he said was assurance that women who develop chorioncarcinoma—a rare but quick spreading cancer—during pregnancy can in many cases be cured.

Another is that there has been some success in stopping cancer's spread by a combination of surgery and application of a chemical at the time of operation and for three or four days after.

Many of the experts emphasized at the news conference that there are many types of cancer and there is no reason to believe any one means will ever control all of them.

Rape Trio Listen to Confessions

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — While three Negro teenagers sat solemnly in Circuit Court Thursday, a stenographer read confessions in which they purportedly admitted raping a 16-year-old white girl in North Little Rock last March 11.

The stenographer, Mrs. Jewell Merritt, was a prosecution witness as testimony began in the rape trial.

Almost four days were required to select the jury.

The trial went into its fifth day today. It probably will last into next week, since 20 witnesses were sworn in.

The jury consists of eight white men, two white women and two Negro men. The regular jury panel and several special panels were used up and all defense and prosecution challenges were exhausted before selection of the jury was completed.

The prosecution is asking the death penalty for Raleigh Williams, 17, Troy Alexander, 16, and Marvin Aron Hammond, 16. They pleaded innocent.

Their attorney, Thad Williams, objected to reading of the confessions taken from the youths a few hours after their arrest last March 23. He was overruled. The defense contends the statements were not made voluntarily.

In the statements, the Negroes were quoted they forced the girl and her escort from a parked car on a lovers' lane after they found them nude.

Four police officers also testified Thursday.

Local Girls Battle for Title of Poppy Queen in Annual Poppy Sale Today

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Something new has been added to the American Legion Auxiliary Poppy Day Sale in downtown Hope today.

A Poppy Queen will be either Margie Herndon, Peggy Franks, Peggy King or Pam Paris as the result of the amount of money received in the name of one of them for the distribution of the little red poppies made by disabled American war veterans.

Not only is this something new for Hope, but according to Junior Activity chairman Cookie Jones, the Leslie Huddleston Unit 12 is the first one in District 12 to have a Poppy Queen contest. It is also one of the first in the entire state. The candidate must be the daughter of a Legionsaire, six to 18 years of age, and sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

About 18 girls besides the four candidates will be selling the poppies in the name of an aspirant for the title of Poppy Queen. The headquarters, as in years past, will be in front of Hope Furniture Co. Also, as in former years, money derived from the sale of the hand-made paper poppies will go to veterans hospitals to buy necessities and comforts not supplied by the hospitals for their patients.

The poppy making has a beneficial effect in addition to the money it enables the veterans to earn. The hours for the hospitalized men are long and monotonous. But men whose fingers are busy with bright red poppy petals are less likely to give themselves up to depressing worry. The hours are made shorter for them and they are given a new interest in life.

On Veterans Day, Nov. 11, the Poppy Queen will be crowned in ceremonies at the Hempstead County Courthouse. At that time a Cross of Poppies will be placed on the memorial monument honoring the memory of servicemen from Hempstead county who lost their lives in World War II. Another Cross of Poppies will be floated on a nearby stream in memory of those who lost their lives at sea.

In the future we might have a state Poppy Queen and some day even a national one, but today the four local candidates, Margie Herndon, Peggy Franks and pre-teens Peggy King and Pam Paris, are competing for the title. They want everyone to bear in mind the true purpose of the sale, though.

It is to place the symbol of heroic sacrifice above the heart of every true American, giving at the same time an opportunity to aid the war's living victims.

U. S. to Use Injunctions Upon Firms

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Considerably stepped-up government use of court injunctions to stop alleged unfair labor practices by employers was strongly hinted today by Chairman Frank W. McCulloch of the National Labor Relations Board.

In an address prepared for the Southwest Labor Law Institute, McCulloch indicated sympathy for recent union complaints to Congress of "a lack of even-handed justice." The NLRB has applied for more than 600 injunctions against unions since 1952 but only six against employers.

The labor board, McCulloch said, is considering areas in which use of the injunction "might be extended, areas where interlocking and temporary relief is desirable and the historic problems of the labor injunction might be avoided."

"Our desire is not to transfer our problems to the judicial forum," he said. "It is our experience that we can deter violations of the act by indicating a readiness to seek injunctive relief when the incentive to resist unfair labor practice charges rests on the advantage of time and delay."

The NLRB chairman said the board is considering a union request to move in the courts against "threatened employer removal of plants after the employees vote for a union—for this type of threat and action effectively kill freedom of self-organization and collective bargaining beyond hope of resurrection."

It was reliably reported that the NLRB is readying injunction proceedings in a case of this sort involving a Southern plant of one of the nation's largest textile firms.

Jones Has Jersey Job in Mind

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Granville Jones, ousted as head of the Arkansas State Hospital, is believed to be discussing a similar job in New Jersey.

Jones returned Thursday from a trip to New Jersey, but he declined comment of what he had done there. He was director of a state hospital at Marlboro N.J., several years ago.

Jones recently was told that he will be shifted to assistant superintendent; when Dr. George W. Jackson arrives from Topeka, Kan., to take over the top job, the Jackson is expected about Dec. 1.

Buddhis From Burma Is New UN Sec.-Gen.

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — A mild-mannered Buddhist from Burma took over today as acting secretary-general endorsed by all 103 U. N. members but faced with a host of unsettled problems.

A six-week deadlock ended Friday when the General Assembly unanimously elected U. Thant, 52-year-old career diplomat, to fill out the 17-month remainder of the late Dag Hammarskjold's term.

But the Soviet Union made clear during the round of welcoming speeches that it had agreed only to a stop-gap solution and still insisted that the United Nations should be run by a troika. U. Thant stressed in his brief acceptance speech to diplomats jamming the great blue and gold hall that he was taking the job with no strings attached.

Taking the oath, he swore not to seek or accept instructions regarding his duties "from any government or other authority external to the United Nations." U. Thant also put forth his position on the main point of dispute that had held up East-West agreement on his appointment—how many advisers he should have. He said he would invite a limited number of U. N. under-secretaries "to act as my principal advisers on important questions."

He said these top aides would include Ralph Bunche of the United States and Georgy P. Arkadev of the Soviet Union, but did not name any others.

Diplomats speculated that U. Thant would need an able corps of assistants to help him through such problems as finding $20 million by mid-December to keep the U. N. Congo force going until the assembly decides what its 1962 program will be.

He also has on his desk such hot potato issues as the reorganization of the U. N. staff, brought up by Soviet Premier Khrushchev and now under debate, and the carrying out of the vast technical assistance programs upon which Hammarskjold placed heavy stress.

When the late Nathaniel Worthly, 92, was evicted from his secluded home last April, movers found mostly trash.

Later, they guessed they might have thrown out inadvertently as much as $22,000 that had been stuffed in unnoticed cans and jars.

Worthly, a former U.S. Treasury Department attorney, died last August.

He and his spinster daughter, Frances, had lived in seclusion and apparent poverty for 30 years but only Thursday did a family attorney disclose the value of Worthly's estate — $400,000.

Monkeys to Be Given Space Ride by U. S.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A rhesus monkey with a radio transmitter and biomedical sensors beneath its skin is scheduled to ride an Atlas missile 600 miles into space next week.

The 6-pound monkey is the first of several animals slated to be rocketed aloft to determine whether implanted sensors can be useful to human astronauts.

If perfected, the system could eliminate uncomfortable and cumbersome wires required for external sensors such as those worn by Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grisson on their space flights.

The monkey will be in a special capsule packed in a cylinder tucked to the side of the Atlas. The cylinder is intended to eject from the Atlas and follow a ballistic course which will land it in the Atlantic 6,000 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral.

During the 35-minute trip the monkey will be subjected to crushing acceleration and deceleration forces, radiation, 15,000-mile-an-hour speed and fiery re-entry heat. An attempt will be made to recover the cylinder and its passenger.

A radio transmitter was inserted in the monkey's abdominal wall several weeks ago. Wires, running beneath the skin, link the transmitter with an electrocardiograph and temperature and respiration sensors planted throughout the body.

The sensors feed information to the transmitter. The transmitter relays the data to a receiving antenna in the animal support couch. The antenna sends the signals to ground stations.

Implanted sensors might increase an astronaut's well-being range on the moon. With external sensors requiring wires, a man would be able to travel only a few feet from his spaceship. The internal instruments might enable him to roam several miles.

U. S. Will Test Several Types Bomb

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said today the United States can be expected to explode several new types of improved nuclear weapons if President Kennedy decides to order test firings in the atmosphere.

Kennedy announced Thursday he is determined to maintain the U.S. lead over the Soviet Union in nuclear weapons strength. He disclosed that he was ordering the "necessary preparations" for atmospheric tests if in his later judgment they become necessary.

Although the President is reported reluctant to order such explosions, there is a growing belief in official quarters here that the United States probably will undertake a program of atmospheric testing in a few months.

Officials reported that U.S. experts do not have in mind exploding superbombs of the kind that the Soviets fired Monday with a force of 50 megatons. On the contrary, they said, the atmospheric explosions would be relatively small, yet larger than tests conducted underground.

Kennedy said in his statement that if bursts in the air become necessary they would be held within limits that restrict the fall-out "to an absolute minimum."

Initial preparations which are now beginning, it was learned, consist of a survey of the types of nuclear weapons which are ready or can be made ready for testing and selection of the sites at which the tests would be conducted. The second stage will consist of the physical preparation for the actual explosions.

The tasks of preparation fall primarily on the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission. The final decision of whether atmospheric explosions actually will be carried out will be made by the President.

Officials familiar with the progress of developments said that kinds of weapons which would undoubtedly be involved in any new testing program would include the much discussed neutron bomb, an antimissile missile and improved types of nuclear warheads designed to give greater explosive power in relation to their weight. These informants said government leaders consider it likely that scientific teams working on weapons development will be encouraged to come up with a variety of new ideas as preparations progress.

NEW YORK (AP) — James Thurber, writer-humorist and cartoonist whose loopy drawings put people and events in perspective, died Thursday at the age of 66.

Thurber died of pneumonia at Doctors Hospital after undergoing surgery a month ago for a blood clot on the brain.

A master satirist, with what a colleague once described as "a firm grasp on confusion," Thurber delighted millions with his wit in his books, short stories, fables, articles, and cartoons.

He never lost his sense of humor, even when he went completely blind several years ago. An accident cost him the sight of one eye when he was six years old. He lost the sight of the other eye despite a long series of cataract operations.

In his last month of life Thurber, who then had difficulty in speaking, occasionally hummed little tunes to amuse his nurses.

Thurber, who attended Ohio State University at Columbus, Ohio, where he was born, was a newspaperman in that city, Paris, and New York.

He joined the New Yorker magazine in its infancy. For some years Thurber and E. B. White wrote "The Talk of the Town," a column-like preface to the magazine, and it was White who persuaded Thurber to make his doodled drawings public.

Thurber collapsed in a New York hotel room Oct. 4. The night before he had attended the opening of the Noel Coward musical, "Sail Away," and addressed the cast afterward. Thurber and his wife resided in West Cornwall, Conn.

Chapter XXX

Beecher took Ilse's hand and started down the long dark pier to the shore. The clubhouse of the Reina del Mar sprawled gracefully along rising ground above the beach.

Beecher followed a shadowed pathway through the gardens. There would be cabs at the front of the club, he knew, but he also realized that almost any cab driver from Mirimar would recognize him on sight. And everyone in town would know that he was on the run, wanted for murder. They were in Spain at last, their feet crunching on the gravelled walks, but they still weren't safe; until he had given himself freely into Don Julio's custody, he couldn't risk meeting anyone who knew him, and knew the trouble he was in.

"What are we to do?" Ilse asked him.

"It's three miles to my villa. I'd rather not walk."

"Are you going there?"

"Yes," Beecher wanted to wash the grime from his hands and face and put on clean clothes. Don Julio wouldn't be at his office now; he would be at home, and Beecher didn't intend to present himself there looking like a skid-row derelict. "You won't need to come with me," he said to Ilse. "You know where the road goes up to my villa? Beyond the railroad track?"

She nodded and smiled slowly at him, and Beecher realized that she would probably behave in exactly the same fashion if he had told her to go jump in the lake.

"Now listen," he said, and rubbed her cheek gently with the back of his fist. "There's a tiny bar called the Quita Pena; it's right on the road beside the railroad track. It's a fishermen's hangout, very dark and quiet. No one from Mirimar goes there. I'll leave you on the terrace. It's not lighted. No one can see you. Drink a glass of wine and wait for me."

"Yes, Mike," she said, still smiling at him.

Beecher climbed the winding dirt road that led to the villa.

One of the terrace doors was open, and this made him smile. He was back in Spain, all right. The landlord had undoubtedly padlocked every window, chained the garden furniture together, and then, smiling efficiently, had hurried off leaving the terrace doors wide open. Beecher walked into the living room. The overhead bulbs seemed to explode against his eyes, flooding the room with light.

Don Julio Cansana, the police constable of Mirimar, stood in the terrace doorway, ominously correct and formal in his green twill uniform and shining black boots.

"I apologize for the touch of theater," Don Julio said. "I was afraid lights might scare you away."

Beecher's mouth was dry, and his heart was still pounding with shock. It took him several seconds to absorb the implications of Don Julio's comment; then he shook his head quickly, like a fighter trying to throw off the effects of a brutal, unexpected blow. "You were waiting for me?" he said.

"Yes," Don Julio said. "The Rosaleen made excellent time, didn't she?"

Beecher sat down slowly on the arm of a chair.

"Who told you I was on the Rosaleen?" he said hopelessly.

"Your friend, the Irishman," Don Julio strolled across the room, the heels of his boots sounding with measured clarity on the cold marble floor. "I persuaded him it was the wisest thing to do under the circumstances."

Beecher smiled bitterly. "And improvements at the Texarkana Bap-

the circumstances were what?"

"I suspected you were in Morocco. For several reasons. A report of a landrover abandoned in Goulamine. A curiously hesitant description from a policeman in Marrakech, and a belated but more convincing one from a hotel clerk in Casablanca. I was kept informed because the crimes had occurred here, you see." Don Julio's tone was mildly ironical.

"The Frenchman was murdered 20 feet from where we are standing, and the missing aircraft was just heard from at our little airport. Naturally, I have an interest in these things."

"Naturally."

Don Julio went on: "At any rate, the descriptions fitted you, and it wasn't likely you would attempt to enter Spain legally, and this thought led me to the Irishman. I made it clear I was in no mood for games."

"Why didn't you arrest me when I landed?"

"You had gone to such great lengths not to be arrested that I believed—or hoped at least—that you were coming here to tell your story to me. Is that correct?"

"Yes."

"Had I arrested you, no one would have believed this for a minute. So I decided to let you come and surrender yourself. Now this is official. You are under arrest."

Communism Study Set Up With Grant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Industrialist Henry Salvatori believes communism, like the weather, is to most people a formidable but only vaguely understood force—obviously capable of devastation, but through processes which even many educated men do not comprehend.

To control or counteract such forces, he says, you must know them.

That is why Salvatori and his wife, Grace, have given $325,000 to the University of Southern California to establish a research institute on Communist strategy and propaganda. Salvatori is a USC trustee.

The institute will be headed by Dr. Roger Swearingen, a Harvard-trained Ph. D. and an authority on the Soviet Union and communism. First off, Swearingen says, "we will assemble professional staff which will include eminent authorities in this field from all over the world."

A research program, additional specialized courses in the international relations school curriculum, a public lecture series and a teachers' seminar are all planned.

Salvatori, 60, is founder and board chairman of Western Geophysical Co., which conducts geophysical work around the world for major oil concerns.

"I have shared with most Americans the feeling of deep disappointment and dismay at the powerlessness of our foreign policies to stave off one disaster after another at the hands of the Communists," he said in an interview Wednesday. "It seems to me that one of our weaknesses has been a lack of understanding of the Communist methods."

DOROTHY DIX

One Animal Lover to Another

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: You recently wrote about a young girl who loved animals and hoped to make a career out of helping them. But parents and friends discouraged her on the ground that this just wasn't for women.

I don't garce I too, wanted to work with or for animals when her age and like her, met opposition.

If she is really serious about gaining experience in the animal field, she might find a position at the Angel Memorial Hospital For Animals in Boston, as I did. I shall always be grateful for the work I was privileged to do there. If, after this, she is unable to find a paying job immediately she might do volunteer work for the United States Humane Society or the local humane society in her town, as I am now doing.

The organization for which I work is called the Friends of Animals. Its headquarters are in New York City. Its goal is to reduce the number of puppies and kittens constantly being born for whom no homes are available. These are the animals who end up as strays, die of starvation or are put to sleep at City Pounds. Our organization gives financial aid to those unable to have pets spayed.

This "birth control" for animals not only cuts taxes, as it minimizes the need for the city pounds, dog catchers and humane organizations but, what is perhaps even more important, saves countless innocent animals, whose only crime is being born, a lot of suffering and misery.

It is heart-warming to find at least one young person concerned for the lesser, helpless creatures who live among us and for whom we are responsible. Her mother should be proud that she has a daughter with such fine values and a compassionate heart. She should be encouraged to follow her ideals. The world has not enough like her. —Mrs. L. D. Eckhart, 34 Rosemary St., New London, Conn.

Dear Mrs. Eckhart: I am publishing your letter in the hope that the young girl will see it and that readers with over-prilic pets may also take notice and write the Friends of Animals Society for particulars. I love animals and as a result I am always feeding some stray. Two months ago I opened the rear door of our home one morning, to find a skinny black kitten with eyes as big as topaz saucers on our kitchen floor. I picked it up and named it Orphanage Thursday, and voted to hold its 1962 meeting in Malvern.

NAMING IT, NOT HEALING IT

There is a whole of a difference between naming your ailments and healing them.

Sick folks who spend their money going from doctor to doctor looking in vain for help become aware of the routine habit of giving their painful symptoms a name and then not doing anything about healing them. Many doctors honestly tell these unfortunate sick folks that there is nothing in their line that can be done outside of just trying to dull the pain and make them as comfortable as possible until the miracle in Nature that started the trouble also stops it.

We find that the miracle in Nature that started the trouble is usually an irritation of an old spinal condition interfering with the natural flow of life energy currents along the nerve lines which was made worse by a minor bump, strain, jar or fall, etc.

A pill just cannot remove that interference nor straighten those scrambled electric signals from the brain to the suffering organs.

Removal of the interference in Nature's transmission lines creates the miracle of restored energy, the symptoms automatically disappear as health returns!

Here is an actual case that demonstrates what we mean.

Nearly six years ago this twenty-nine-year-old aircraft inspector complained of throbbing headaches and extreme muscular tension in back of his head and neck with sharp pains and numbness in both shoulders and arms. He was scared, nervous and jumpy. He was subject to frequent colds that left him with a hacking cough, sinus drainage, and difficult breathing. He had constant indigestion with intestinal gas and bloating. He related he had been suffering these symptoms since a severe attack of pulmonary tuberculosis in 1949. He was under medical care constantly for two years and received intermittent attention the following year all of which failed to heal him other than temporary relief. Discouraged, he came to the Johnson Chiropractic Clinic where an examination and X-ray disclosed a spinal curvature causing several nerve interferences. Corrective adjustments were made and the nerve line in the body. All branches of the Healing arts got some people well and control every organ in the body. All failures have been your lot, our method may succeed. These cases may seem amazing to the uninitiated but the wise readers are investigating.

en steps. It has been an intermittent boarder ever since. I say intermittent because of two dogs; one a Gargantuan but amiable English bull, the other an enormous Rhodesian Ridgeback lion hound who stayed with us briefly and at different times. The afternoon Tuckie, the English bull, arrived, I saw the kitten flatten into a black streak across the garden and over the fence. But, no sooper had he left than she was back. Then came kindly Danda, the Rhodesian Ridgeback, at heart a cat-lover. However, he will give chase, if a cat runs, thinking it a game. The black kitten whom we had dubbed "Lucky" ran. But once on top of the garden fence, pluckily stayed to fight. We rescued her in time. Again she vanished and we, in a sense, were relieved. Lucky must have slipped on Danda from a convenient tree for the very day he left, she returned to establish herself as a member of our household.

Sunday - Monday at Saenger

THE ABOVE SCENES ARE FROM "PEPE" THE Academy Award winning picture which stars Cantiflas, Dan Dailey and Shirley Jones with guest stars Bing Crosby, Maurice Chevalier, Bobby Darin, Frank Sinatra, Debby Reynolds, Kim Novak and a host of other stars.

Late Show Sat. at Saenger, Also Tues. and Wed. Feature

"THE PRIVATE LIVES OF ADAM AND EVE" STARS Mickey Rooney, Mamie Van Doren, Fay Spain, Mel Tormé, Tuesday Weld and Paul Anka in what really happened in the Garden of Eden by all of Satan's sinners.

MOON OVER PITTSBURGH — It wasn't moon madness which produced this striking night shot of the moon's progress through a Pittsburgh, Pa., sky. Cameraman made a five-second exposure every five minutes as the moon traveled over his home. Note clear reflections on car top, seen in the foreground.

FOR SMALL CHANGE — Does that "Short Orders" sign behind Patrolman Lawrence Hild apply to these mid-sized parking meters in South Haven, Mich.? They might be for compacts, but the truth is that they have just sunk into their sidewalk bases.

Faith

You In The Church
The Church In You — form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

Son of man, whenever I doubt of life I think of Thee." So wrote George Matheson in his blindness.
Whenever you and I doubt either God or man, we would do well to think of Jesus. His cross is a symbol of what God is and what we may become. The proud Roman at the foot of the cross said, "This man was the son of God."
Jesus was supremely a man of faith. He had great faith in both God and man. We have faith in God largely because we must have Him. We are not sufficient unto ourselves. Do you have faith? Life becomes a radiant thing for people of faith, since they see so much deeper into the secrets of life. The universe opens its heart to eyes of faith; closed doors swing ajar when faithful steps approach; loving spirits smile their welcome to trustworthy souls; latent powers blossom in the presence of fidelity; young children and wise old age give themselves with abandon to those who offer confidence. God waits to share His blessings on men who can be trusted. Of the Pilgrims of yesterday, guided by the Divine, it was said, "They were men of faith and very sure of God." Are you sure of God?

The Churches of This Community, Are the Only Institutions Which Have as Their Main Function, the Transforming of Human Lives
They Are the Sign Boards Pointing the Way to God.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through this series of pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted . . . to combat
Communism on all front . . . to be faithful to God.

Our Ministers Are God's Servants Who Call the Signals Against the Organized Forces of Evil. They Invite You to Enlist On the Side For God. . . to Come to Church.
